President's Message

It still feels like winter, but it's already mid-May and the 2008 season is in full swing. Everyone seems upbeat and happy to be back on track. The driver forum postings have returned to civility. I know it's going to be a good year! Here's a quick recap of the season so far.

Every club has held at least one successful driver training, and we're continuing to generate a steady stream of new novices. (NCW grid for Race #1 – 26; grid for Race #2 – 27)

Entries for the first two championship races were strong – just under 200 per event, with 43 and 52 cars in Group 1. Both Cascade and IRDC did a fantastic job of organizing their events. In Portland, under a full flag salute, a caravan of cars that stretched almost completely around the track paid tribute to Neil Swanson. What an awesome sight.

The new track configuration at Portland got a thumbs up, and everyone loved the grip of the track surface. Lap times were as fast as ever, and the anticipated problems at Turn 7 did not materialize. In a few more weeks, we'll get to try out the other new track configuration, at Mission.

Things are definitely going smoothly. The three Stewards have things well under control. The drivers are behaving themselves pretty well too – a smaller than usual number of 'tickets' have been issued so far. Did you catch the debut of '3 Questions with Hal' at the Saturday Driver's meeting? So . . . will it be Mary Ann or Ginger?

Pro-3 is a continuing success story for Conference. The class is active and growing – 18 cars on track in Portland, 24 in Seattle. I hear we could see 30. You couldn't ask for a nicer, more generous group of people! Check out their new poster!

Some of the new rules enacted over the winter are proving to be beneficial. The new minimum race weight stickers are definitely helping at the scales. In one group, 24 cars made it through the scales in 18 minutes.

The open wheel groups are making headway too. Group 3 had 15 entries at Race #1 and 18 entries at Race #2. Group 6 had 16 and 17 entries, respectively. Incorporating NOW into Group 6 may prove to be positive, and we are seeing some 2nd entries in these classes.

And there is good news for Northwest Motorsports and Team Continental!

The race in Spokane is on! The county purchased the property at auction and intends to keep the track. Plans for major improvements to the track are in the works for 2009. Race announcements for the NWMS 2008 double race weekend are in this Memo. You'll definitely want to put this event on your schedule – it's a fun track and you get two races for one tow.

New tracks at both Grass Valley and Boardman are now moving forward with development, and although not ready for 2008, both are planning to be open for racing in 2009. As a result, Team Continental has notified Conference that they will not be putting on races this year. But make sure to look for TC race events on next year's schedule.

Any other newsworthy items or positive ideas to share? Send them my way. Until then, I'll see you at the track.

Steward's Soapbox

Just a quick note this issue...

Great job to all of you who have taken our advice on your "out lap" by visually identifying each one of the Corner Worker's Stations as you pass by. This little mental exercise will help you immensely to be more aware when a flag is displayed when you are busy in the cockpit. We are seeing a good trend of fewer incidents of contact and also of passing under the yellow this year. So, please do your part to continue this effort at each event you attend. I also hope that having a consistent definition of what constitutes a safe pass and to whom the line belongs and when you have to give each other racing room is helping too. Time will tell this year, but all of you are doing well by racing clean and safe...let's keep this trend going!

See you all in Portland June 7th & 8th!

Hal Hilton

Is Speed Differential a Good Thing?

What do you suppose would happen if you threw a half dozen Camaros into a NASCAR race - door to door with the 'cars of tomorrow'? Many folks would argue that, at least on the longer tracks, it would make the race a lot more fun to watch.

In club racing there is simply not enough time in a day to separate the groups out so that there is no more than a 10-second speed differential. When the ICSCC race groups were designed, the idea was to combine classes of cars that play well together. From a driver training perspective, I'm beginning to think this is a good thing. In NCW we've sometimes had as much as 50+ seconds difference, like when a Fiat 850 and a tube frame 'Vette monster are chasing each other around PIR.

In the Novice program, we are trying to teach awareness, including:

- Far up and out vision
- Peripheral scanning and vision
- Mirror scanning and vision
- Depth perception
- Closing speed awareness

If every car is running the same speed, it's too easy to just lock onto the bumper ahead of you and go for a Sunday drive. On the other hand, if there's closing traffic to contend with, you have to stay aware and on top of your game.

From another angle, consider how hard it is to pass a competitor in a matched car with matched ability. Aside from the opportunities provided by traffic or driver error, you'd have to be really lucky, really aggressive, or really stupid (a known 'bonehead' that other drivers don't trust) to pull off a pass. Good drivers enjoy driving with other good, responsible drivers. We don't want to wait for luck, we try not to be overly aggressive, and we definitely eschew stupidity on the track.

So... is speed differential a good thing? I think so. It makes us better traffic managers and more aware drivers. (And it makes the clubs more money because they can squeeze more entries into a track day.)

If you've ever dreamed of running an endurance race like 24 hours at the Ring, the 25 hours at Thunderhill, or even the Rolex 24, you had better get good at handling traffic. At the Rolex 24, a DP closes on a GT car faster than a government office at 5PM on Friday. So, yes - speed differential is a good thing to deal with in club racing; it helps us become better, more versatile drivers.

Note: Wes Hill's job (setting up car launches around the world) puts him in direct contact with a lot of track and race drivers. He has mentioned more than once that our N.W. ICSCC race drivers are on par with, or better than, most of these drivers - probably due to a combination of weather extremes, technical track conditions, and the variety of cars we race with every year.

P.S. The speed differential in most groups is one reason I am often on a soap box about making sure you have good, complete-coverage mirrors that are easy to use. In sedans that means a Wink or wide Longacre mirror, plus two side mirrors, and an "A" pillar wide-angle bicycle or "baby in back" mirror. Mount the center mirror as far forward as you can for ease of use and wider vision. Take advantage of straights and overlapping corners to clear the course ahead and behind and you will not be "surprised" nearly so often.
